

Meet Your Obstetrician and Gynecologist

Candace McGregor, MD

Becoming a physician is a long process that requires significant sacrifices from not only the person involved but also their loved ones. My greatest challenge has been balancing my drive to continuously become a better physician with my desire to also be a good wife and mother to two young children.

Why I Chose Healthcare

"When I was eleven years old, I told my mother that someday I was going to deliver babies. Ever since then that has always been my answer to the question 'What do you want to do when you grow up?' I have always wanted to assist women through the often difficult yet amazingly wonderful events of pregnancy and childbirth."
